Leading the Way in Intellectual Property Legal Education

The John Marshall Law School in Chicago, Illinois, has one of the oldest and most highly regarded intellectual property law programs in the country, offering an extensive number of courses at both the JD and LLM levels. John Marshall's new MS degree program in intellectual property law is geared to the non-lawyer IP professional.

Nationally recognized full-time faculty, practitioners, and members of the judiciary help prepare students in all facets of intellectual property law, including patent, trademark, copyright, trade secret, sports, entertainment, and international intellectual property law. Opportunities to take courses offered by the Center for Information Technology and Privacy Law help keep students current on information technology-based issues impacting intellectual property law and practice.

Employers know that John Marshall graduates receive exceptional training in intellectual property law and have the practical skills needed to help law firms and other organizations succeed.

Dr. Lulin Gao is one of China's leading IP protection experts, with experience in the private, public, and university sectors. He also has a strong IT background. Dr. Gao is an attorney specializing in patent law who has held a variety of leadership roles over the course of his career. He served as commissioner of the Chinese Patent Office and founding commissioner of the State Intellectual Property Office. For roughly two years, he was a senior advisor to the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) in Geneva. In 2002, he founded East IP, a Beijing firm that specializes in IP, and became its chairman.
